

Title:

Assistant Professor - Power Electronics

Department:

Electrical and Computer Engineering

Position Type:

Faculty, tenure track

Position Summary:

The Helen and John C. Hartmann Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering at New Jersey Institute of Technology invites applications from outstanding individuals for a tenure-track assistant professor faculty position with a primary focus high performance power electronic devices and systems, wireless power transfer, energy storage systems, cost-efficient power and energy systems with reduced environmental impact, smart-grid and micro-grid modeling, integration, and security.

Essential Functions: teaching and research in relevant fields of engineering and applied science. We seek candidates with a demonstrated ability to conduct research at the highest level, and with a commitment to outstanding teaching and mentoring of students.

To apply for this position please to:

<https://njit.csod.com/ats/careersite/JobDetails.aspx?site=1&id=7>